Increase	—	R 470,000 (25.0%)

SECTION 3: GROUNDS FOR OBJECTION

I, the undersigned registered owner of Erf 6668 Durbanville (9 Carnation Close Weg, Durbanville), hereby formally object to the GV2025 market valuation of R 2,350,000 as reflected in the 2025 General Valuation Roll.

3.1 Basis of Objection

I submit that the GV2025 valuation of R 2,350,000 does not accurately reflect the market value of the subject property as at the prescribed valuation date of 1 July 2025, and that the correct market value should be no more than R 2,200,000.

My objection is grounded in the following:

3.2 Inconsistent Valuation Within Carnation Close Weg

The GV2025 valuation of the subject property is inconsistent with the valuations of directly comparable properties on the same street. This is the strongest ground for this objection:

Property	Erf	Erf Size	Dwelling	GV2025 Value	Land Rate (R/m ²)
9 Carnation Close Weg (subject)	6668	360 m ²	107 m ²	R 2,350,000	R 6,528/m ²
17 Carnation Close Weg	6660	298 m ²	96 m ²	R 2,250,000	R 7,550/m ²
Other Carnation Close properties	Various	~460 m ²	Various	R 2,240,000	~R 4,870/m ²

Key observations:

- 1. The subject property has been valued R 110,000 higher than the adjacent properties with larger erfes (~460 m²). Properties at the end of the cul-de-sac, which have erfes approximately 100 m² larger than the subject property, are valued at only R 2,240,000 on the GV2025 roll. There is no justifiable reason why a smaller property (360 m²) should carry a higher valuation than larger properties (460 m²) on the same street with the same zoning, the same configuration, and the same market conditions.
- 2. The implied land rate for the subject property (R 6,528/m²) is approximately 34% higher than the land rate for neighbouring properties at R 2,240,000 on ~460 m² (R 4,870/m²). This disparity is not supported by any property-specific factors that would justify a premium for the subject property — if anything, the subject property's smaller erf size should attract a lower valuation, not a higher one.
- 3. No. 17 Carnation Close Weg (Erf 6660) sold for R 2,435,000 in March 2025 but was valued at only R 2,250,000. By contrast, the subject property sold for R 2,350,000 in February 2024 and was valued at exactly that amount. This demonstrates that the City is not uniformly applying recent sale prices as valuations — No. 17 received a valuation R 185,000 below its actual sale price, while the subject property was valued at its full sale price. This inconsistency is unfair and discriminatory.

3.3 Sale Price Does Not Equal Market Value

The GV2025 valuation of R 2,350,000 appears to have been derived directly from the subject property's transfer price of R 2,350,000 (registered 7 February 2024). However:

1. The Act requires valuation at market value as at 1 July 2025, not at the purchaser's historical transaction price. The sale occurred approximately 17 months before the valuation date. Market conditions, comparable sales, and property-specific factors must all be considered — not a single transaction in isolation.
2. A willing buyer, willing seller assessment as at 1 July 2025 must account for comparable valuations on the same street. If comparable properties with larger erfs are valued at R 2,240,000, a willing buyer would not pay more than R 2,240,000 for a smaller property on the same street with no distinguishing premium features.
3. No. 17 Carnation Close sold for R 2,435,000 (more than the subject property) yet was valued at R 2,250,000 (less than the subject property). The City cannot selectively apply sale prices: either sales data governs (in which case No. 17 should be R 2,435,000+) or comparable market analysis governs (in which case the subject property should be aligned with the street at R 2,200,000–R 2,240,000).

3.4 Smaller Erf — No Basis for Premium

The subject property has one of the smaller erf sizes on Carnation Close Weg at 360 m², compared to the ~460 m² erfs of the properties at the end of the cul-de-sac. In the established property market:

- Smaller erfs in the same street generally attract equal or lower valuations — not higher.
- No structural or locational premium exists for No. 9 that would justify a valuation R 110,000 above properties that are 100 m² larger.
- The dwelling extent (107 m²) is consistent with the modest erf size and does not represent an improvement that would warrant a premium above neighbours.

3.5 Excessive Percentage Increase from GV2022

The GV2025 valuation represents a 25% increase from the GV2022 value of R 1,880,000. While property values have increased in Durbanville over this period, a 25% increase for a 360 m² residential property in a cul-de-sac must be supported by comparable market evidence. Given that larger properties on the same street are valued at R 2,240,000, a 25% increase to R 2,350,000 is not justified.

SECTION 4: COMPARABLE SALES AND VALUATIONS (AS AT 1 JULY 2025)

The following data is drawn directly from the City of Cape Town's own GV2025 Valuation Roll and the City's official sales records, accessed at web1.capetown.gov.za/web1/gv2025:

4.1 Sales on Carnation Close Weg, Durbanville (City of Cape Town Official Sales Data)

#	Address	Erf	Erf Size	Dwelling	Sale Date	Sale Price	R/m ² (land)
1	9 Carnation Close Weg (subject)	6668	360 m ²	107 m ²	2024/02/07	R 2,350,000	R 6,528/m ²
2	17 Carnation Close Weg	6660	298 m ²	96 m ²	2025/03/06	R 2,435,000	R 8,171/m ²

4.2 GV2025 Valuations on Carnation Close Weg, Durbanville

#	Address	Erf	Erf Size	GV2025 Value	R/m ² (land)	Notes
1	9 Carnation Close (subject)	6668	360 m²	R 2,350,000	R 6,528/m²	Highest value, smaller erf
2	17 Carnation Close	6660	298 m ²	R 2,250,000	R 7,550/m ²	Sold R 2,435,000 — valued R 185,000 below sale price
3	Adjacent properties (end of cul-de-sac)	Various	~460 m ²	R 2,240,000	~R 4,870/m ²	Larger erfs, lower valuation

4.3 Broader Durbanville Comparable Sales (City Official Sales Data)

#	Address	Erf Size	Dwelling	Sale Date	Sale Price	R/m ² (land)
1	9 Eikenhof Street, Durbanville	387 m ²	132 m ²	2024/10/17	R 3,350,000	R 8,656/m ²
2	3 Rodger Street, Durbanville	1,487 m ²	224 m ²	2023/11/20	R 3,100,000	R 2,085/m ²
3	2 Rodger Street, Durbanville	1,580 m ²	280 m ²	2025/03/21	R 4,750,000	R 3,006/m ²

Note: The broader Durbanville sales illustrate the wide range of land rates in the area. The subject property's GV2025 land rate of R 6,528/m² is not supported when compared to the uniform R 2,240,000 valuations applied to larger properties on the same street.

SECTION 5: REQUESTED AMENDED VALUATION

Based on the comparable valuation evidence on Carnation Close Weg and the specific factors identified above, I respectfully request that the Municipal Valuer amend the GV2025 valuation of the subject property to:

R 2,200,000 (Two Million Two Hundred Thousand Rand)

This figure represents a fair and market-related value as at 1 July 2025, taking into account:

- Consistency with neighbouring properties: Adjacent properties with larger erfs (~460 m²) are valued at R 2,240,000. The subject property, with a smaller erf of 360 m², should be valued at or below this level.
- The principle of uniformity: Section 44 of the MPRA requires that "the market value of a property [must be] determined by reference to comparable sales." The subject property should not be valued higher than properties with which it is directly comparable — and which have larger erfs.
- Correcting the sale-price-as-valuation approach: The valuation should reflect a proper market assessment as at 1 July 2025, not a mechanical adoption of a 17-month-old sale price, particularly when this approach was not uniformly applied to the immediately adjacent property (No. 17, which sold for more but was valued for less).

A valuation of R 2,200,000 would result in a land rate of approximately R 6,111/m², which remains higher than the ~R 4,870/m² rate applied to the larger adjacent properties — a conservative and reasonable request.
